ANNUAL REPORT

IF YOU LIVE OR WORK
IN GREENWICH,
YOU HAVE A STAKE
IN THE GREENWICH
HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Greenwich enjoys a truly colorful past. From its precarious position on the Connecticut frontier during the American Revolution to its later reputation as a Gilded Age enclave for the rich and infamous, our town has long been associated with well-known individuals and pivotal events in the arts, business, journalism and politics.

The Historical Society contributes immeasurably to the cultural vitality of this unique community. We serve as your bridge from the past to the future by offering innovative programs, exhibitions and preservation initiatives. The Bush-Holley Historic Site, which boasts a stunning period landscape, was home to one of the first American Impressionist art colonies and consists of an extensive research library and archives chronicling all things Greenwich, the Vanderbilt Education Center and the 1805 Storehouse Gallery with rotating exhibitions and a museum shop.

At the Historical Society, you can attend fascinating lectures, enjoy hands-on family and educational programs, walk back in time on docent-led tours of Bush-Holley House and be captivated by live storytelling programs.

One visit and you'll understand the value of supporting this invaluable Greenwich resource.

Letter

from the Chairman and Executive Director

Dear Members, Patrons and Friends:

The Greenwich Historical Society fills a critical community role in the events, people and places that constitute the fabric of the 373-year history of the Town of Greenwich. This “institutional memory” is the product of the Society’s archival, museum, exhibition, publication and educational initiatives over the past 82 years. The past year constitutes yet another successful chapter in fulfilling our role.

This report highlights programs presented with our many community partners and illustrates the exciting variety of educational approaches, including lectures, tours, school programs, excursions, music programs, festivals and storytelling. A major community highlight was the celebration of the town’s Italian American heritage in our exhibition From Italy to America. The Town joined the celebration with a ceremony recognizing Rose and Morra de Sanctis as sister cities in Italy. Also, an Emmy award-winning creative director featured 44 Greenwich families in a film created for the occasion, archival materials concerning Italian immigration to Greenwich were added to the Society’s collections, and the town’s Italian heritage was celebrated in music, song, food and wine.

We continued to expand the history and preservation sections of our Web site with informative resources that include a brief history of Greenwich, a map and guide to Greenwich historical communities, a description of the notable archival collections that we preserve and a list of Greenwich landmarks and historic designations. Our online articles on Greenwich Patch and the Greenwich Daily Voice reached many new readers and expanded the audience for our publication programs.

Pivotal to our mission, the Greenwich Historical Society plays an essential role in inspiring and deepening understanding of local and American history through education programs for all ages. This year marked the completion of a five-year partnership with the Hamilton Avenue Elementary School that integrated museum programs with the first through fifth graders’ curricula focusing on art and history. Over 3,700 students participated in the Society’s diverse educational programs during the past year.

We celebrated the replacement of the cedar roof on Bush-Holley House, our National Historic Landmark, and the restoration of the dormer to the artists’ studio with a stunning art exhibition. The exhibition featured 26 works of art from 16 lenders and demonstrated the wide range of spaces in which turn-of-the-20th-century artists lived and worked. It also provided visitors with the opportunity to deepen their understanding of the Bush-Holley House’s role in American history as the site of an important school of American Impressionist artists.

The Historical Society has made important progress in developing a vision for the integration of the recently acquired Toby’s Tavern at 47 Strickland Road into our historic site. A Historic Structure Report and Feasibility Study were completed (see page 16) as part of reviewing the exciting opportunities offered by our expanded Strickland Road campus. Our objective is to develop a campus that will enable the Society to offer materially enhanced services to Greenwich in fulfillment of our vital community role.

These accomplishments were made possible through the stellar commitment and support of our stalwart members, distinguished trustees, dedicated professional staff, devoted volunteers, community partners and generous patrons and donors. We extend a warm thank you to each of you for your crucial participation and generous contributions during the past year.

Sincerely,

Davidde Strackbein

Special Thanks

Deborah and Chuck Royce are well known to Greenwich organizations (and beyond) as generous and wise philanthropists. Deborah currently serves on the Greenwich Historical Society Board of Directors and Chuck on the Advisory Council. They are passionate about the Cos Cob art colony and made a two-year commitment to help us preserve and interpret its art and history. Their $300,000 gift enabled us to restore the roof on Bush-Holley House, reconstruct a 1902 dormer in this National Historic Landmark to better tell its history as a studio for artists, and bring two significant art exhibitions to fruition with catalogs to document new scholarship. In fall 2012 we presented A Good Light: The Artist’s Studio in Cos Cob and Beyond, curated by Susan G. Larkin. The New Spirit and the Cos Cob Art Colony: Before and After the Armory Show, curated by Valerie Ann Leeds, opened in October 2013. We are grateful to the Royces for making possible these very special projects.

Financial Highlights

TREASURER’S COMMENTS: The finances of the Historical Society continue to be strong. For the first time, net assets exceeded $12 million. Performance of the Endowment Fund (permanently restricted) was excellent, adding appreciation of $474,000 for the year. Special thanks go to Fraser Beede for her expert oversight of the investment portfolio. Operations resulted in a gain for the year, and operating expenses were on budget. Our fall fundraisers, including the Antiquarius Holiday House Tour and Boutique, contributed $298,000 to revenue. Finally, as always, your continued support is deeply appreciated.

2012-13 Highlights

It was a another busy year featuring two major exhibitions in the Storehouse Gallery along with an exhibition that asked artists to look at our own Bush-Holley House with new eyes in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Greenwich Art Society. We encouraged the love of history and preservation through lively and engaging programs. Not only did we expand on our exhibition subjects through lectures, but we also offered dynamic hands-on history and art programs, book talks, concerts, field trips and tours for all ages.

Fundraising

Contributions, grants and income from special events make it possible for the Greenwich Historical Society to fulfill its mission. Our donors take pride in Greenwich, are passionate about Greenwich history and show it by giving generously throughout the year.

Highlights from 2012–2013 included the Antiquarius Holiday House Tour and Boutique and a festive evening celebrating design with Miles Redd and his Big Book of Chic. We were thrilled to partner with producer Frank Gaglio and the Bruce Museum to bring a winter antiques show back to Greenwich.

Casino Royale was cancelled in the wake of Hurricane Sandy, but the community contributed generously even without a party.

Membership grew substantially this year, and many gifts were received for the annual fund, the exhibition patron councils, education programs and the matching fund to make our newly acquired property at 47 Strickland Road ready for immediate use. Our lead donors to the annual fund, known as members of the Greenwich Historic Trust, were honored at a spring event underwritten by Thomas Peterffy.

Preservation and Community Outreach

This year we celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Greenwich Landmark Recognition program, which identifies and documents historically significant structures in Greenwich, by adding five historic structures to a roster of 283 historic resources. We now possess rich, accurate, authentic details about these important structures that will be preserved for all time. The Landmarks programs will continue to encourage the preservation of Greenwich’s architectural heritage as an important element of our history and continuing quality of life.

We also furthered our preservation initiatives with our biannual Preservation Awards and continued to reach out to the community through off-site lectures and partnership programs.

Building Reveals Hidden Secrets and Opens New Possibilities

In 2013, the preservation architectural firm of David Scott Parker Architects prepared a Historic Structure Report about the Greenwich Historical Society’s recent acquisition, 47 Strickland Road (“Toby’s”) on the eastern border of the Bush-Holley Historic Site. Their detailed 150-page report, partially funded by a grant from the Connecticut Trust for Historic Preservation, documented the evolution of the building’s architectural history. The study revealed three unique phases in its development. The original structure was an 1805 two-story modified saltbox constructed by Justus Luke Bush (1777–1844), co-heir to his father David Bush’s business. J. L. Bush subsequently constructed a shed addition on the north side of the saltbox. Remarkably, Parker’s firm identified the original intact post and beam construction and ceiling boards in the cellar, which were integral architectural elements of this early smaller structure. After the arrival of the railroad in Greenwich and an expansion in the tourist trade by 1855, new ownership responded with a dramatic transformation of the saltbox into a three-story, flat-roofed, Italianate hotel with a kitchen wing to the rear and an appealing Gothic fretwork porch and front façade renovation (see illustration). The former cellar was greatly enlarged and transformed into a saloon reinforced by stone retaining walls that still exist today. The flooring and balloon-framed additions to the rear of the first and second floor also remain, as does the front porch framing. Surprisingly, remnants of the wall of a former unattached massive rear stone barn constructed during this period were also discovered. National Prohibition and a gradual shift of business activity to the Post Road initiated the final chapter of the building’s architectural history. In 1935, a contractor purchased it and removed the entire bracketed top floor, transforming the former hotel into a Colonial Revival-style two-story multiple dwelling residence. The former tavern became a three-car garage and the Gothic fretwork verandah became a utilitarian glass-enclosed porch entry. The current exterior appearance and the interior wall finishes all date to this final stage. Armed with the report’s extensive documentary and physical evidence, the Historical Society is in the process of reviewing several exciting alternatives this addition offers to provide enhanced visitor experiences, as well as enriched programs and services for the Greenwich community.

The famous Cos Cob art colony boarder, Childe Hassam, created this etching in 1915, entitled Toby’s Cos Cob, illustrating the lower façade after it became Tobias Burke’s saloon (“Toby’s”).

A 1906 photograph of Tobias Burke’s daughter Helen Burke, who served as a model for Hassam, revealed in the background a bay window similar to the two bays on either side of the first floor entry to “Toby’s” tavern.

Remembering
Malcolm Pray

It is with great sadness that we note the passing of Malcolm Pray on August 25, 2013. Mr. Pray served with distinction for nine years on the Historical Society’s Board of Trustees. In recognition of his outstanding contributions of time, talent and financial support, he was named a Lifetime Honorary Board Member in 1999. Known throughout Greenwich for his generosity, he is especially remembered for inspiring young adults to set and achieve their goals. He will be missed.

Antiques & Art Avant-Garde Greenwich

The ground-breaking fundraiser for two of Fairfield County’s most respected cultural organizations, the Bruce Museum and Greenwich Historical Society, celebrated the return of an art and antiques show to kick off the holiday season.
